

Overall I really like it! it communicates my idea great and it's very clear and easy to understand. Also, it works pretty great responsively!

technical communication:

I think for the links maybe adding a hover Attribute will make it more clear that it's a link. You could make it turn red to add more color.

On the discography page, the images don't line up with the subhead as they do for the member's page making that adjustment will bring reinforce the margins of the website.

Right now the images sources arent included on the website I believe that should be added.

Design stuff:

you could possibly treat the subheads of members and discography like you do for the background text on history and impact. But if it looks weird don't worry about it.
